

B

I

N

G

O

dramatic 11th-hour near-death scene (bonus points if both the man and the woman are endangered)	phrase "liquid fire"	private walk in a garden or greenhouse	"quirk" used as a verb	gambling/card scene
port/brandy drinking scene in a testosterone-filled library	the man "deepens" the kiss with his tongue before the woman does	the man thinks that he "wants to kiss [the woman] everywhere" (bonus points if he says it aloud)	the woman does something scandalous/masculine that shows what a free spirit she is (ideally with the man watching)	the man is surprised by the woman's intelligence
the man is a renowned player, and the woman is a virgin	mention of coffee-colored breeches	FREE SPACE	the man notices the woman's luscious curves beneath her dress and feels a bolt of lust	gossip about how "the ton" is filled with loveless marriages (aka proof that our protagonists are special)
the man is happy the woman is a virgin, and reflects on how enjoyable it will be to introduce her to the pleasures of the flesh	dramatic misunderstanding that could've been solved in five minutes with basic adult communication	horse riding scene (bonus points for a hunting party scene)	there's a "thunderous" expression on someone's face	the man becomes inflamed with jealousy (bonus points if punches are thrown), and this reinforces how manly he is comment about how jaded/cynical one of the protagonists is about love	the woman tries to pull away from a kiss, but the man convinces her that she really wants it	it's revealed that the man had a violent father who taught him that emotion was a weakness	mention of the man's prodigious muscles	the man comforts the woman while she cries (bonus points if she's crying about her childhood)